WVC Announces 91st Annual Conference in Las Vegas, February 17 - 20, 2019

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA (February 6, 2019) - WVC is less than two weeks away from the 91st Annual Conference at Mandalay Bay Convention Center in Las Vegas, Nevada, February 17-20, 2019. Over four days, the organization anticipates over 14,000 veterinary professionals will select from hundreds of continuing education (CE) hours, have an opportunity to meet with over 500 exhibitors and attend live events designed to inspire and entertain.

For 91 years, WVC has been providing practical, high-quality CE for the veterinary community through a variety of learning formats such as workshops, symposia, seminars, lectures and hands-on labs. Topic areas include small animal, equine, food animal, and avian and exotics, with education tracks designed specifically for veterinarians, veterinary technicians and practice managers.

Participants will enjoy star-studded entertainment featuring a Merck-sponsored concert by Grammy-award winner Keith Urban; a motivational speech from Mel Robbins, former CNN-anchor and best-selling author of “The 5 Second Rule”; and a comedy night with Mayim Bialik, known for her role in “The Big Bang Theory”, sponsored by Hill’s Pet Nutrition. New in 2019 comes Party for a Purpose, a night dedicated to fun and fundraising with the Spazmatics at the House of Blues in support of local non-profit, Noah’s Animal House.

In the Exhibit Hall; participants are invited to win prizes and recharge at the debut of WVC Central, as well as take advantage of a professional photo booth to update, 20-minute Learning Lounge sessions, the Vet Detective scavenger hunt, and attend the ever-popular Exhibit Hall Mixer.

“We are excited to once again welcome those from across the United States and the globe to Las Vegas for the 2019 WVC Annual Conference. It seems that each year our meeting gets bigger and better, and certainly this year is no exception”, said WVC CEO David Little. “Everything from the continuing education; hand’s-on labs offered at WVC’s own Oquendo Center; Exhibit Hall; entertainment; Mandalay Bay; and of course, Las Vegas as a destination are world-class and unrivaled. We can't wait to kick-off the conference and get things going for our 91st annual event"
