WVC Named a Top Nonprofit to Work for the Second Year in a Row

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA (April 15, 2019) - WVC is pleased to announce that they have been named one of Nonprofit Times' 50 Best Nonprofits to Work For in 2019. This annual ranking is dedicated to recognizing top employers in the nonprofit industry by considering a number of factors, including employee engagement and the ability to tap into employees' skills. Each year, the Nonprofit Times selects the top 50 nonprofits to work for in the United States, in which WVC was ranked number 44, scoring an average 90 percent positive responses overall. This achievement is a testament to WVC's commitment to fostering a strong team dedicated to enhancing veterinary and human medical education worldwide.

"We are thrilled to be included on the Nonprofit Times' list of Best Nonprofits to Work for in 2019 along with an outstanding list of companies," said Steve Gebhart, WVC Interim Chief Executive Officer, "WVC has made a conscious choice to invest in our team members and the organization culture. It matters because we know that putting our full effort and resources behind a passionate, hard-working team results in a win for the team members, the organization and the veterinary and human health providers."

WVC produces the WVC Annual Conference each spring and offers diverse hands-on educational programs at the state-of-the-art Oquendo Center in Las Vegas. In 2019, WVC will also present two Veterinary Technician Symposia, and host Destination CE – Alaska, where participants will have the opportunity to optimize their orthopedic practice on an eight-day Celebrity cruise through Alaska.
